

STATE ORDERS COMPLETE 4TH WARD RECOUNT

CHESTER WOMAN SERIOUSLY HURT AT COLUMBIANA

Condition, Following Rail Crossing Crash, Is
"Just Fair"

SLIPPERY ROADS SLOW UP TRAFFIC

Snow Covers District
Highways; One Accident Reported

Despite a heavy snow which fell overnight, making highways slippery, few traffic accidents were reported in the Salem district.
Only one of two women injured
when their automobile was struck
by a passenger train at Bell's crossing at Columbiana Thursday afternoon, remained in City hospital
here today.

Possible Skull Fracture
She is Mrs. Joseph Mickey, 28,
of Chester, W. Va., driver of the car, who suffered a possible skull
fracture, bad scalp lacerations and contusions and lacerations on both legs and body. Hospital attaches report her condition as "just fair."

Mrs. Edith Moore, 19, of W.
Friend st., Columbiana, a half-sister of Mrs. Mickey, was treated for an injury to her left shoulder yesterday afternoon and then discharged from the hospital.

The train which struck the women's car at 1:45 p. m., was westbound from Pittsburgh to Detroit.
J. Lorne, engineer of the train,
said the engine caught the rear of
the auto, hurling it onto an adjoining track. Both women were thrown from the wreckage.

Truck Kills Horse
A horse which ran from a field
onto the highway was killed when
hit by a truck, driven by Kermit Heaton of Dorset on Route 45,
three miles north of Salem, at 3:15
a. m. today.

State highway patrolmen said
the front end of the truck was badly damaged. The identity of the owner was not known.

The government was blamed for an accident on Route 14, one and one-half miles west of Unity, at 8 a. m.
today.

A machine driven by Andrew J.
Ellis of Columbiana was struck by a truck-trailer operated by John Perry of Pittsburgh when the truck slid over onto the wrong side
of the road while attempting to go uphill.

Ellis escaped injury although his machine was badly damaged, state
patrolmen said.

Highways throughout the district
were covered by snow which fell
the greater portion of the night.
State highway department forces
were kept busy ashing hills
throughout the county.

A snowfall of slightly more than
an inch was recorded by weather
observers at the disposal plant
here.

Veterans Honored By Damascus Lodge

Charles Case and Henry Buck-
man, who have been members of the Damascus Odd Fellows lodge
for 50 years, were presented gold
membership buttons at a homecoming held by the lodge at the hall
in Damascus last night.

Presentation of the awards was made by Dr. Samuel Borton, I. O.
O. F. members and their families enjoyed an oyster supper prior to the meeting, which was attended
by about 60 members and guests.

Mother of Mayors

Mrs. Elizabeth Nester

"Mother of mayors" might well be the title of Mrs. Elizabeth Nester
who celebrates her 93rd birthday
at her home in Boonville, Ind., Nov. 22. Her eldest son was elected mayor in 1905, her second son
became mayor in 1920, and her
"baby" son was elected mayor
in 1930.

TYPHOON DEATH TOLL MOUNTING

At Least 46 Reported To Have Succumbed Near Philippines

MANILA, Nov. 19.—The death toll
of the Philippine islands' second typhoon in a week jumped to 46
today as reports of sea disasters
were received here.

The fishing boat Miss Liloan sank near Masabate and only one member of the crew of 31 was known to have been saved. Fear was felt for the "Tern" and passenger carrier Ma-a Daqueno and other boats in the Masabate region
were unannounced. Three Japanese fishing boats sank off Moiocabo and Iloilo.

Thirteen passengers and sailors
were missing after the motorboat Guan sank off Leyte. The motor-ship Gamotes went down in the same vicinity, drowning one crew
member and three passengers.

In northern Cebu province the typhoon was considered the worst in its history. Sixty per cent of the homes in some sectors were reportedly demolished.

Reports indicated widespread damage to public works and private property by the tropical storm,
which started Wednesday. The Red Cross and the government
pushed relief work.

Torrential rains fell today on Philippine regions fringing the China sea and coast of Luzon
island.

SURVEY SHOWS COUNTY CHIEFLY IN WET COLUMN

Madison Township Dry-

Of "3.2"

MIDDLETON TWP. JOINS WET RANKS

Legalizes Beer; Knox Ballots Out Everything
But Beer

LISBON, Nov. 19.—Although several townships and municipalities
have voted on local option referen-
da since repeal, Columbiana county
is still preponderantly wet, a survey completed today shows.
Madison township is the driest
district in the county. But even here the sale of 3.2 beer is tolerated. It is interesting to note in this connection that the sale of even
this "low powered" drink may be prohibited under local option laws
of the state. Sale of intoxicants has been limited to 3.2 in this township
for years.

Merely Moist

Three others of the county's 18
townships are merely moist. Fairfield is dry with the exception of Columbiana village which permits
the sale of beer. Knox township voted out everything but beer at the last election.

Two local option issues for ballot
action Nov. 2 would have been supplemented by a third but for improper certification. Drys in Hanover township petitioned for a referendum there. A liquor dealer successfully contested the petition
in a court action in which he claimed the names of all circulators
had not been included in the affidavit filed with the election board.
Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones
granted a writ of mandamus barring the inclusion of the issue from the township ballots a week prior to election. The action was taken

KIWANIS FETES HIGH GIRDDERS

Coach Edgar P. (Smiley)
Welterner of Geneva
Is Speaker

"Football is a man's game; it's not the place for 'sissies'."

This, in effect, was what Coach
Edgar P. (Smiley) Welterner of Geneva college told Kiwanians and their guests, the High school football squad and coaches, at the club's annual gridiron luncheon
yesterday at noon in the Memorial building.

"I want my boy," said Welterner,
"to get into a football suit and get out there with other boys; to stand up there on the line, or back of the line, and get hit—hit hard—by the other fellow who's coming tough. I want him to know the experience, on the other hand, of charging in at the other fellow,
charging hard, taking his opponent
out of the play and taking him out
in a way that counts."

"I don't believe in unnecessary
roughness, mind you, or brutality,
but I do believe that the boy who takes the bodily contact that football provides becomes a better man."
He learns sportsmanship. He knows how to be aggressive. He knows how to "take it," too, and come back for more. In other words, the boy who plays football
can't be a sissy."

Welterner had an inspirational note
for the Quaker gridders who are

Unemployment Cards Show Plenty Of Work On Farms

"I've All I Want!" Says Farmer; Another Says He Has, Too, But Would Like More Money

As the government's unemployment cards drift back to the postoffice, having been filled out by persons totally or partly unemployed, many humorous angles on individual cases are revealed.

Postmaster A. E. Beardmore estimated today that close to 700
questionnaires had been returned

serve as a reminder to those seeking
work that "the farm's the place."
This man wrote across his card:
"I am a farmer and I have all the work I want!"

A farm hand, however, sent back
the card which the mailman left him, with these words, "I worked 72 hours on the farm last week
and got paid only $3." He indicated
he would rather have a job that paid better wages.

An 82-year old Salem man, a good worker in his day, enumerated his qualifications and said he would like to have employment.
Several, some of them women,
indicated they were not satisfied
with their present jobs, and would like other work. Still others filled out the cards unnecessarily, for the cards showed they held down good jobs and were making good money.

The cards, Postmaster Beardmore
said, are to be filled out only by
those totally or partly unemployed.
The questionnaires must be returned to the postoffice by midnight Saturday.

Lisbon Marks Anniversary Of First Christian Church

Congregation, At Services Sunday, To Honor Memory of Founder, Walter Scott

LISBON, Nov. 19.—An eloquent,
school teaching preacher who founded the first Disciples of Christ church in the world here 110
years ago will be honored by the congregation of the Lisbon Christian church in special anniversary
services Sunday.

The founder was Walter Scott,
who was selected in 1827 by the Mahoning Baptist association to revive interest in the 20 churches
coming under the organization's jurisdiction at that time.
Scott, a teacher in the old Steubenville academy, came here as a lay delegate when the association met in August, 1827. He was pre-valued upon to undertake the revival program sponsored by the group and came to Lisbon, with that in view, in November.

Wage-Hour and Crop
Control Legislation May
Be Enacted Soon

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Prospects improved today for the enacting wage-hour standards and crop
control legislation—two of President Roosevelt's recommendations
—before congress quits for the Christmas holidays.

A statement by John L. Lewis
termining the wage-hour bill "undeniably sound" in principle, despite "serious limitations," encouraged its sponsors to redouble efforts to get the bill before the house.

Lewis Promises Help

Lewis wrote Chairman Norton
(D-NJ) of the house of labor
committee that labor's non-partisan league, which he heads, would do everything possible to bring about the wage-hour bill's chances
at this session, they agreed that both house and senate probably
could start debating farm legislation on Monday.

Details of the measures were not
in final form, but Secretary Wallace's ever-normal granary program
is expected to form a base for marketing quota provisions.

Democratic Leader Barkley predicted the senate could pass the farm bill in a week, and that
the anti-lynching measure would take another week.

That would leave the final two

NEW COUNT TO BE HELD ON TUESDAY

Pct. A. Change Put Koenreich Ahead of Lewis by One Vote

A chance for George Lewis, Sr.,
to retain the Fourth ward council
post he won in the Nov. 2 municipal election, only to lose it in a re-
count of one precinct last Monday,
was seen today as the secretary
of state's office in Columbus ordered the Columbiana county board of elections to extend the recount to include all other precincts of the ward.

Lewis, a Republican, who has served one term as councilman
from the Fourth ward, defeated
Fred Koenreich, Democrat, by one vote, 585 to 584, in the Nov. 2 election.

Counted One Precinct

Koenreich asked and posted funds
for the recount in which he emerged
victor over Lewis after only one of the Fourth ward's five precincts
had been counted.

Lewis dropped two votes in the recount of Precinct A and since
this was enough to give Koenreich
an edge, the Democratic candidate
ordered the recount stopped. Koen-reich's count remained the same.

The move by the secretary of state's office, which county board
officials believed is unprecedented
in Ohio election history, was made after the board of elections submitted its certification of the recount to Columbus.

Election board officials said that Lewis did not ask the secretary of state's office to continue the recount, but that the order for continuation of the tally was made
because the result of the election
was changed.

Neffner's Ruling

George Neffner, statistician for Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, handed down the ruling which declared that "in view of the change
in result, the recount of the entire ward should be completed."

He held that Koenreich had no
legal right to stop the recount unless he remained behind in the tabulation and felt that he could not pick up enough votes in the remaining precincts to defeat his opponent.

Election officials advised Koen-
reich today that he must again
post $50 bond to cover expense of completing the

Resurgence of conservative thought, the outstanding political development of 1937, has been caused by three things:

1—A business recession which is a sharp reminder that the fate of new deal reform will be determined by the success of new deal recovery.

2—Recognition by influential members of congress that business stability is the key to any political program.

3—An apparent inclination on the part of President Roosevelt to temper his program to the exigencies of this situation.

It has been said the President's message to congress last Monday was important not because it was a report on the state of the union but because it was a report on the state of the President. This is true. Probably to the consternation of many of Mr. Roosevelt's followers, there is a tendency toward modification of his bristling attitude toward businessmen in general.

They are wondering whether he intends to follow through. That, at the moment, seems to be the state of the President—a teetering position on the fence, leaning a little more toward the moderate side than before, but still potentially capable of tumbling backward into an attitude that everybody's out of step but the new dealers.

OFFICIAL GUESSTIMATING

The question of what will be proved by an unemployment census grows more insistent as returns pour in.

The question grows from doubt that the census will be wholly accurate. It won't be. But that proves nothing.

The decennial census of the population isn't wholly accurate, either. But it serves its purpose, which is to furnish an official estimate on which everybody can agree.

The next thing to think about is continuing an unemployment census at regular intervals in the future so fluctuations of employment and unemployment can be measured with some semblance of agreement on the facts.

In the meantime, the country should be noticing how easy it would have been to add one more question to the census cards which theoretically have been distributed to every abode in the nation. Are you employed?

If the census was worth taking, it was worth taking well. Failure to get an estimate of employment along with an estimate of unemployment will be a heavy and utterly needless handicap on the enumerators.

CLEVELAND HOUSECLEANING

The significance of the proposed cleanup of labor shakedown rackets in Cleveland is the boost it will give clean unionism, if it's thorough and honest.

Unionists know this. They have helped to bring the shakedown showdown to a head in Cleveland. The labor racketeer is as much a pain in the neck to an honest union member as he is to an honest businessman.

He gives all unionists a black eye. He bleeds them for money. He takes advantage of the inherent weaknesses of their organizations to line his own pockets.

He makes things rotten for everybody. He discourages honest enterprise and minimizes honest jobs. He's everything that racketeers have been called—and don't make the mistake of thinking racketeering was originated by unions. Quite the contrary, it has victimized them.

Unions have a powerful motive for wanting to help the law to help them clean house.

WOUNDED IN ACTION

Mortality among Ohio hunters this year (knock on that fence post, Nimrod) is low. There have been enough accidents, however, to invite a little speculation about what happens in war, where every man has a gun and a license to use it.

The effect must be about the same as it would be to arm the rabbits, partridges and pheasants that are being stalked in Ohio at the moment. In other words, while combatants on each side try to kill the enemy they also shoot each other and themselves with sufficient frequency to swell the casualty lists appreciably.

The first army to train its men so perfectly that they won't shoot themselves and their companions will gain enough advantage over other armies to master the world. This is passed on to the generals for what it's worth.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, November 20

Unfavorable circumstances are likely to arise today, judging by the ominous planetary aspects. There is a menace to personal danger born of questionable contacts, especially with members of the opposite sex. Be discreet with strangers and shun all business as well as personal jeopardy.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a hazardous year, with danger from indiscreet behavior, particularly in entanglements with the opposite sex. Be wary, using much wisdom in contacts with strangers.

A child born on this day may be changeable and unsettled, with much of its movements instigated by unguarded emotional stirrings.

Stout knew definitely he was to take over the editorship of the Saturday Evening Post, following the retirement of the late George Horace Lorimer, he decided to brush up on his literary background before the actual duties began. He wanted to do a lot of reading and historical research, so he bought a couple of five-foot shelves, sundry biographies and reference works and shipped as a super-cargo on a merchant ship for distant ports. The super-cargo is a sort of purser on a freighter. He has scarcely any work, save when loading and unloading.

Joe Frisco's famous "heater"—the cigar he constantly puffed from the moment he awakened until he went to sleep again—has been abandoned, temporarily at least. After almost a life-time of furious smoking, Frisco was ordered to slow up, and, not able to handle the habit moderately, gave it up altogether. His cigar and puffs of smoke were long a part of his dance routine, but he now uses an imitation cigar and leaves the smoke to imagination.

New York's somewhat mysterious first-nighter, the middle-aged Mrs. Katzenberg, is loyal this season to the rather moribund legitimate theatre. There are not as many opening nights as there used to be, but she does not miss those that carry on. A bright blonde, swathed in ermine, she has occupied first row seats on the aisle at every premiere for years. She has no theatrical alliances, is the wife of a business man and is merely an admirer of the theatre and its illusions. She never exchanges a word with the others in the first night crowd, most of whom know each other intimately. All producers include her on the must lists for those who are mailed seats and promptly return checks. There are not many, for most of the first night crowd comes in free.

The men's bar at the Waldorf has become the up-town meeting place for the tired business man before he goes home for dinner. Just as was the old Waldorf bar on 34th street. But there isn't the camaraderie of the days when the biggies drank old fashioned or rye straight, swapped Pullman car DeCamerons, perhaps huddled in song and maybe phoned home they were delayed at the office. The new Waldorf crowd indulges a thin sherry, Dubonnet or something else light. Their talk seems cool and glassy. Men bow politely but there's little treating. Instead of interest in the last race at Pimlico, they invariably discuss the political affairs. It is a new generation grown up, lacking the abandon of the old and taut as fiddle strings, as though wondering just what.

A gentleman from Flemingsburg, Ky., writes of riding northward in a New York sight-seeing bus and of the megaphonist at a certain corner shouting: "On the left is the apartment house home of the columnist O. O. McIntyre." And I have been sitting at the front window trying to look nonchalant practically ever since.

HEALTH

DEVELOPMENT OF BABY

"How fast does a baby grow in weight and height?"

"How can we tell if the baby is developing normally?"

These are two questions that young and inexperienced parents often ask the doctor. Let us see how these questions can best be answered.

The young mother—her size and appearance of the infant in the various stages of early life. To know about the normal progress of the child is of great value. It makes it possible to detect the first signs of a disturbance which, without watchful care, might be overlooked.

Whenever there is a question of doubt, she should consult with her doctor. I say this advisedly. There should be a family physician, one who is liked and trusted. To consult with him quite regularly will be found comforting and beneficial. At birth the average baby weighs about seven pounds. At six months it doubles its weight and triples it at one year. During the first few weeks little change in appearance is noted. The infant may lose weight during the first few days but soon begins to gain.

Its Development
At the age of a month or so, the child begins to raise its head and thrust its fingers into its mouth. It seems to recognize its mother and other members of the immediate family. In the third month the youngster is able to make known its likes and dislikes. At about the fourth and fifth month it develops purposeful movements and actions, such as holding a toy or other object. Failure of growth, loss of weight, marked irritability and restlessness—all these are danger signals that must not be disregarded.

Usually by the sixth month the infant holds its head erect and is able to sit up with a little support. The average healthy baby can creep and change its position, or even be able to sit up alone, at about the eighth month. Some babies, especially little girls, are able to stand up at this age. But this is not the usual rule. The average normal infant of 10 months raises itself to a standing position. It begins to walk shortly after this.

time but only if assisted. A delay of several months in walking or in talking should not cause alarm, because some children are much more advanced than others in this particular.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. B. W. C. Q.—I am the mother of five children, ages ranging from 15 months to 10 years. I am anxious to prevent whooping cough under the circumstances. Our family physician does not guarantee inoculations as a sure preventive and seems to discourage the practice of same. What is your advice? A.—Such inoculations are sometimes very effective, provided they are given three months prior to exposure. Talk with your doctor. I feel sure that he will be glad to advise you and cooperate in every way.

AVIATORS RELY MORE ON STARS

"Nautical Almanac" Issued by Air Ministry in London

United Press
LONDON—Astronomical navigation, almost entirely ignored by the earlier fliers, is being increasingly used as the ranges of aircraft are extended and as ocean flying becomes more common.

In recognition of this trend the Nautical Almanac Office has undertaken the computation of "The Air Almanac" and this work was issued for the first time as an official Air Ministry publication.

It is arranged in two parts, one designed to have a certain permanence and to be replaced at intervals of two, three or four years, the other being ephemeral and containing the astronomical data for the dates given. This part will be issued at first quarterly, later bi-annually, and, finally, annually. The first issue covers the period from Oct. 1 to Dec. 31.

The Air Almanac is being issued to all Royal Air Force bomber and general reconnaissance squadrons as well as to appropriate service headquarters, schools and libraries. Hitherto the air navigator has had to adapt the Nautical Almanac to his particular needs and the Air Almanac is designed to fit those needs more exactly so as to save time and trouble during flight. One difference between the two almanacs is that the nautical one shows the variations of the stars in hours, minutes and seconds, while the Air Almanac shows them in degrees and minutes of an arc. This difference saves some of the processes of calculation.

BOY UNEARTHS ANCIENT GOLD

Spanish Pieces of Eight Buried Secretly During Civil War

(By United Press)

NEW ORLEANS—In a sandy field six miles northeast of here, the grandson of a Confederate overland blockade runner has plowed to light the fate of Louisiana's legendary gold camel caravan.

Lawrence Holmes was plowing in his father's field near Robert, La., when sunlight glinted on several strange looking coins. They were Spanish Pieces of Eight.

He showed them to his father, Robert Holmes, who recalled the camel caravan.

"My father," the elder Holmes said, "was an overland Confederate blockade runner who led the camel train through this section to avoid capture by the Federals blocking the Mississippi river."

"On their backs were bags of old gold pieces and bullion that had been obtained somehow in Texas. The money supposedly was being taken to the headquarters of Jefferson Davis, Confederate president in Alabama."

Camels Drank Too Much

But the "ships of the desert" were unused to the great amount of water in Louisiana's bays and small rivers. They drank themselves to death and died near the Holmes farm. The bullion on their backs was secretly buried.

The coins found by young Holmes are believed the first discovered of this buried treasure. They date back to 1798. Several bear the imprint of Charles IV of Spain, king during the last days of Spain's domination in Louisiana more than 150 years ago.

Records in New Orleans Howard Memorial library substantiate the story of camels used by the Confederacy.

They had been introduced into the United States in 1855 by Jefferson Davis when he was secretary of war. At his request congress passed a bill appropriating $20,000 for their importation. Seventy-five were landed at Indianola, Texas.

Used By Army in West

They were used by the army in the semi-arid regions of West Texas and the desert country of New Mexico and Southern California. Fatter for long journeys than horses and more durable, the camels proved successful on army exploration and surveying trips. But the teamsters resented this pumped competition for their horses and mules.

When the Civil war began, government camels were scattered throughout Texas. Davis, then president of the Confederacy, remembered their good service as beasts of burden, and the Confederate postoffice department captured a number to use as overland blockade runners.

But Louisiana is no dry, arid country. The camels imbibed too much water when they passed through the Tangipahoa river country.

Now the Holmes family is plowing out of season, hoping to turn up more gold.

Prospector Hints of Rich Gold Find Beside Skeleton In Mine Long Hidden

(By United Press)

OLYMPIA, Wash.—When Frank Smits, prospector, stumbled onto an old mine in the rugged Mt. Adams country, he found not only the skeleton of an old miner, but a cache of gold, he hinted.

For 15 years Smits has been prospecting, never making more than poor wages for his hard work.

But now he may have a fortune locked by mystery within the musty mine.

Smits said he found the mine by accident. It is so well hidden by nature that it could remain that way for decades, he believes. The prospector was scuffling along the edge of his claim, he said, when he happened to spy an opening at the base of a cliff.

The hole was partly covered by sliding rock. Spurred by the prospector's constant curiosity, he pushed the rocky earth aside. Finally, the hole was big enough for him to enter. He slid inside and found a small room and a tunnel. The tunnel slanted upward. With a flashlight Smits went ahead several steps until he came to another room. Gingerly he stepped down a rotting ladder onto the floor. There he found what had been a miner's home. A dust-laden skeleton lay upon a decaying bunk. A nearby sluice box indicated gold. Smits left, then came back. He was convinced the old miner had hidden a hoard of gold before he died.

Smits tapped the earthen walls with a hammer. At last a hollow sound—he found another tunnel behind a slab of rock. Following this tunnel he came to another smaller room. Smits admits he found evidence of gold in the rocky walls. And he hints he found a fortune.

LISBON MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Will Celebrate Founding Of First Christian Church

In a memorial address delivered in 1875, Rev. William Baxter, a prominent cleric of that day, eulogized Scott by saying: "Nothing ever occurred in Lisbon's history of such importance to the world as the sermons delivered by Walter Scott in that unpretentious frame building. There was not a single congregation in the world of this body when Scott began his plea here in 1827. Now in Ohio alone there are three or four hundred."

Two Services Planned Among the ministers who picked Scott to evangelize in the Mahoning district was a Rev. Sydney Rigdon. This preacher later became famous as the right hand man of Joseph Smith, founder of Mormonism.

The anniversary will be observed in both morning and evening services. Rev. Kenneth Brown, president of Hiram college, will speak in the forenoon. Several former pastors of the church will be present and will take an active part in the program.

Rev. F. C. Lake heads the present church. He and Mrs. May Pritchard are in charge of the program.

Sees New Evidence

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19.—New evidence in the grand jury investigation of labor racketeering in Cleveland was promised today by Safety Director Eliot Ness.

He said several Cleveland business men who volunteered information would appear before the grand jury. In strictest secrecy, seven businessmen from New York, Detroit and St. Louis testified before the jury yesterday.

UNWRITTEN LAW WRIGHT DEFENSE

"I've Got to Win," He Says, "For the Sake of My Little Girl (Helen, Aged 3)"

(By Associated Press) GLENDALE, Calif., Nov. 19.—His "chin up," Paul A. Wright, 38, airport president, prepared an unwritten law defense today for his trial on a double charge for shooting his wife and best friend.

"I'm keeping my chin up," he said. "I've got to beat this case for the sake of my little girl, Helen. She is 3."

Wright withheld his "full story" at his preliminary hearing yesterday, when 80-year-old Police Judge Frank Lowe set his arraignment for Dec. 6. But part of his statement to police that he caught his wife, Evelyn, 28, "cheating" in the arms of John Kimmel, his business associate, was read.

"I was so perfectly astounded," his statement said. "They looked up, smiled and kissed again, then they went perfectly white hot, x x x All I could think of was to destroy that thing."

Kimmel, 32, and married, had accompanied him home. Wright told police, early the morning of Nov. 9 after a round of drinking, Wright said he went into a bedroom for a nap, later to awake and find Kimmel and Mrs. Wright embracing on the piano bench.

Jerry Geisler, Wright's attorney, drew from police testimony that Kimmel's clothing was "disarranged."

Deputy District Attorney Harry Hunt contends the slayings were deliberate.

SURVEY SHOWS COUNTY IS WET

Madison Township Dryest, But Permits Sale Of "3.2"

after evidence supporting the liquor dealer's contention had been presented.

In 1934 Middleton and Perry townships both voted on liquor and beer. Perry voters sanctioned both. Middleton went entirely dry but residents indicated a slight change of heart by approving the sale of beer this year.

Cities Wet

East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville and East Palestine, the four cities in the county, are wet, selling both liquor and beer. East Palestine rejected local option in 1936, Salem, voting with Perry township in 1934, is wet. The issue has not been voted on in the remaining cities since repeal.

Rogers village banned liquor in 1936 but permits the sale of beer. The same statement applies to Columbiana, which acted on the referendum at the same time. All other villages are wet.

Three liquor stores and three agencies are maintained in the county. The former are located at East Palestine, Salem and East Liverpool. The latter city also has one of the three agencies. The remaining two are in Wellsville and Lisbon.

Democrat Sheriff Accquitted by Jury

(By Associated Press)
POMEROY, Nov. 19.—Roscoe O.
Fowler, first Democrat ever elected
sheriff in traditionally Republican Meigs county, went free today of a second-degree murder charge in the death of Republican leader Lyle Williamson but still had to combat
a court suspension order before regaining his office.

A common pleas jury last night
acquitted the officer of the murder charge and three companion counts.
Facing him still is a court hearing on an ouster petition, date for
which has not yet been set.
Williamson was found unconscious in the street on the early Sunday morning of June 27, after
he attended a lodge party, and died
July 17 of a skull fracture.
The state charged that Fowler
"wilfully and maliciously" struck
the Republican leader with a blackjack at the party.

Score Arrested In Plot On Cardenas

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—A score
or more of men and women arrested in raids on the headquarters of several Rightist organizations in connection with what had been reliably reported as a plot on the life of President Lazaro Cardenas
were released today.

A box of dynamite was seized at one of the places by judicial police
and investigators, connected with Cardenas' private secretariat.
A source close to the presidential palace said last night, at the time
of the raids, that evidence of a conspiracy to dynamite Cardenas' special train had been uncovered.

The conspiracy was to have been put into execution, he said, the next time the president set out from the capital to visit the Mexican interior. Cardenas had been expected to leave Mexico City this weekend
on a tour of four northwestern
states.

PROBE PLANNED IN JAIL ESCAPE

Jury Ordered In Investigation of Kidnapers'
Dash for Freedom

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 19.—It was freedom's end today for three members of the 1933 O'Connell
kidnap gang—their capture effected through information supplied
by a janitor and a parking lot attendant.

Percy "Angel Face" Geary, leader
of the desperado triumvirate which staged a daring escape from the Onondaga county penitentiary at nearby Jamestown, N. Y., Tuesday morning, was seized late yesterday
in a Syracuse parking lot shanty.
The other two, John Oley and Harold Crowley, recaptured Wednesday in a Syracuse rooming house on a tip supplied by a janitor
—Ivan Whiteford, exactly 39 hours
after their escape, were brought to Albany and lodged in the Albany
county jail.

Meanwhile from Washington the justice department ordered two investigations of the escape, one
through the federal prison bureau
and the other through federal agents' questioning of the recaptured prisoners about the identity
of a go-between who may have smuggled them guns.

District Attorney William C.
Martin obtained a court order to

Theater Attractions

"Stand-in" shows at the State tonight and Saturday.

Leslie Howard and Joan Blondell head the roster of stars in the screen version of Clarence Budington Kelland's Saturday Evening Post story.

Joan Blondell and Leslie Howard in a scene from "Stand-In" at the State tonight and Saturday.

The charming Leslie emerges as a comedian in the role of Atterbury Dodd, the shy, bespectacled banker who goes to Hollywood to take over the $10,000,000 Colossal studios and run them by the science of mathematics. Joan is the stand-in who helps him over the Hollywood hurdles, helps him foil the conspirators who are plotting to get the studio, teaches him to rumba and makes him realize that he's more than a human adding machine.

Ribbing For Hollywood

Hollywood comes in for one grand ribbing—from the temperamental glamour star, the fantastic foreign director (this one stops a picture and sends to the Swiss Alps for real edelweiss), the young producer who's a genius when he's sober, and the sharpshooting press agent, to be palatial, "prop"-furnished mansions, the liveried limousines and the studios with their madhouse confusion.

Humphrey Bogart plays the genius producer, Alan Mowbray has his maddest role as Kozlofski, the foreign director, Maria Shelton is the glamour star who winds up as stooge for a gorilla-man, C. Henry Gordon is his usual villainous self as Nassau, the scheming rival producer, and Jack Carson Potts, the obnoxious press agent.

At The Grand

The Grand attraction tonight and Saturday is "Prairie Thunder". Dick is a soldier, a cavalryman, assigned to the job of guarding and repairing the newly-strung telegraph wires and newly-laid rail lines. The Indians are destroying these at the suggestion of certain renegade whites, who don't want their own freight-wagon business to go under.

Checking up on a break in the telegraph line made by the Indians, Foran locates the whites responsible for the feeling of unrest which has pervaded the Indian camps. Realizing that he knows too much for their own good, they decide to get him out of the way.

E. Liverpool High Pupils Are Tested

EAST LIVERPOOL, Nov. 19.—Under direction of Dr. R. C. Costello, city health commission, a tuberculin test was given 780 students of the high school, with permission of parents. The results of the examinations show that 225 students, or approximately 29 per cent of those tested, gave a positive reaction.

The fact that a person gives a positive reaction does not mean, however, that the person has active tuberculosis but does mean that he has been exposed to the germ.

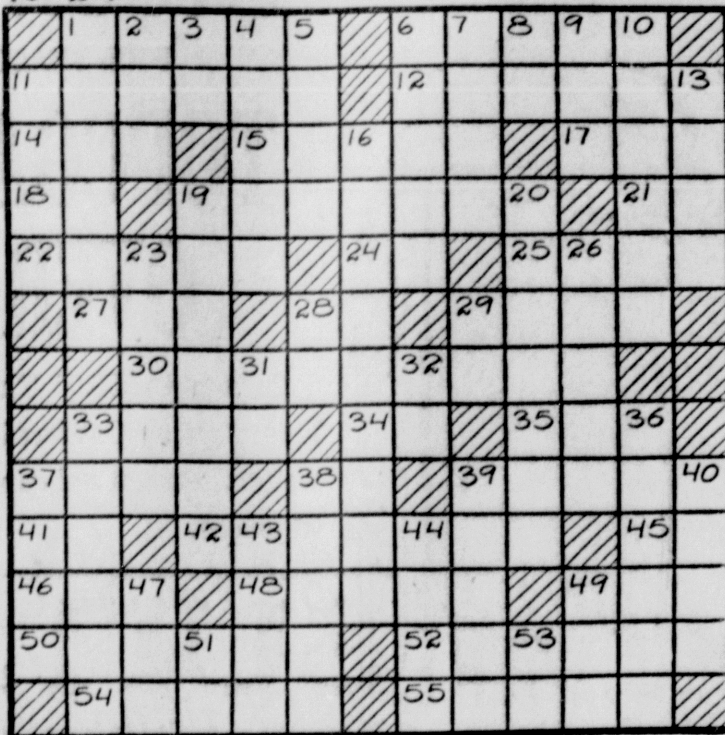

The Columbiana County Public Health league hopes to be able to give a chest x-ray and examination to each positive reactive on Dec. 10.

Says World Facing Momentous Changes

ALLIANCE, Nov. 19.—The world is facing the most momentous changes ever known, in the opinion of Dr. Brown Landene of Newton, N. J., an authority in science, arts and business, who addressed the Alliance Rotary club at its luncheon meeting yesterday on "How to Face the Future."

The photo-electric cell, synthetic chemistry, rapid plant growth, increased use of the airplane or any one of many other scientific developments about to break into full bloom, may prompt an economic revolution without precedent, he explained.

prepping now for their Thanksgiving tussle with Alliance here. "Don't let them worry you," he cautioned. "Don't let any team worry you. After all, they are just schoolboys like you are. They have their classes, their studies, their practices just the same as you do. They're not a bit different. They're not superior in courage."

Coach Carl Schroeder of the Quaker team introduced his entire squad, as well as student managers. Other guests included Assistant Coach Ted Jones; Junior High Coach Frank Gordon; R. W. Hilgendorf, Athletic association treasurer; and Basketball Coach Herb Brown.

Lewis F. Smith and J. M. Kelley, who aided in the football program, and Faculty Manager Fred Cope, all members of the club, also were present. At the conclusion of Weltner's talk, movies portraying the Quakers in action in practice and in the Dover game were shown by F. F. Wells.

Rio Grande College Building Is Burned

GALLIPOLIS, Nov. 19—Sixty-one-year-old Atwood hall, principal building on the campus of Rio Grande college, 13 miles north of here, burned today with a loss estimated unofficially upward from $50,000. Fire Chief Steven Jenkins of Rio Grande was hurt.

The fire broke out about 5 a. m. and spread rapidly through the three-story structure. Students aided village volunteers and firemen from Gallipolis and the nearby Ohio hospital of epileptics in fighting the blaze.

Jenkins was cut about the face and head when the top blew off a tank of chemicals he was using to combat the flames. Origin of the blaze was not determined immediately. The building housed the athletic department and class rooms.

weeks of the session for the government reorganization bill. Some senators, however, forecast the farm debate would take up most of the remaining time.

A number of legislators, eager to obtain relaxation of the corporate taxes on business, still were talking hopefully of obtaining action at this session. But leaders discounted the possibility, in the belief that the house subcommittee studying the question would not report in time.

Iron Out Competition

Except for the tax study, committee activity this week has been confined exclusively to the President's legislative program. As a result, once the administration measures reach the senate and house floors, they will have little competition.

In the meantime, however, house members were speaking on any subject that struck their fancy.

and southern senators were prolonging their filibuster against the anti-lynching bill. They called on Senator Dixie Bibb Graves (D-Ala) to take the floor this afternoon, barring a decision to recess early for the weekend.

Canton-Massillon Tilt Heads Small District Grid Program

QUAKERS IDLE; LISBON MEETS COLUMBIANA HI

Tickets for Salem-Alliance Turkey Day Contest On Sale

With Coach Carl Schroeder's Salem High school Quakers idle this weekend, football turns away from Salem for the first time since the start of the season two months ago.

The Quakers, like many other Columbiana county and district teams, will wind up their 1937 campaign Thanksgiving day, meeting Alliance High school's Aviators at Reilly stadium.

Tickets for the Salem-Alliance game, which will start at 2:15 p. m., were to be placed on sale at the J. H. Lease and N. L. Reich stores by Faculty Manager Fred Cope today.

Both reserve and general admission tickets for the annual Turkey day contest will sell for the same price, 50 cents, and it will be the first time served in the sale of the choice seats.

The scholastic football schedule in the county and district is greatly reduced this week due to the fact that the large majority of the schools have either completed their schedules or will end the season Thanksgiving day.

The headline battle of the district program pits Canton McKinley's undefeated Bulldogs against Massillon High school Tigers at Lehman stadium in Canton tomorrow afternoon.

Beaten by Massillon in the last four meetings, McKinley hopes to avenge these setbacks and lay claim to the state scholastic championship with a victory over the Tigers tomorrow.

Columbiana county's lone contest tomorrow sends Coach Jimmy Wland's Columbiana High school eleven against Coach Phil Eble's Lisbon High Blue Devils. It will be the final contest of the season for both teams.

The winner of the Columbiana-Lisbon tussle will move into sole possession of second place in the Tri-County Football League.

Columbiana, which captured the Tri-County grid championship last season, boasts a better season's record than Lisbon, but both schools have performed the same in league competition, winning three games, losing one and tying one.

Columbiana's lone setback this season was at the hands of the Minerva eleven which won the 1937 league championship by compiling an undefeated record. Minerva is the only team that has scored on Columbiana to date.

Richard (Sonny) Fisher, brilliant halfback for Columbiana, who won the Tri-County league individual scoring race in 1935 and 1936 and finished second to Draher of Minerva this season, will end his scholastic grid career in the Columbiana-Lisbon game.

In addition to Fisher, other Columbiana gridriders who will be playing their last game are: Bob and Bill Enright, Bauer, Eckert, Cole, Culp, E. Poulton, Magill, Fullerton, Hoover and H. Burkle.

Columbiana defeated Lisbon 35 to 6 last season.

Bowling Champion To Roll ABC Winner At Recreation

Joe Falcato, Gene Gagliardi To Appear At Grate Bowling Alleys In Special Match Tuesday

Two of bowling's foremost exponents, Joe Falcato, unbeaten world's match game champion, and Gene Gagliardi, 1936-37 A. B. C. singles champion will roll an exhibition match Tuesday, Nov. 30, at the Grate Recreation alleys.

Falcato, known to the kegling fraternity as "Chesty Joe" has been maintaining averages of 230 to 250 in all of his recent matches. He has won more prizes and held more bowling titles than any other kegler.

He has chalked up a world's record of 41 perfect games and can be depended upon to roll in his very best form when the big money is down.

Joe became interested in bowling when, as a youngster, he served as a pin boy in a Brooklyn recreation. He soon became so proficient in belting the maples that his army of backers were winning huge sums of money on his prowess.

Like Walter Hagen of golf fame he rose to his greatest height when "the pressure was on" and proved himself one of the greatest money bowlers of all time by clinging to the title of world's undefeated match game champion over a period of years.

Gagliardi, a Mount Vernon pin topper, won the 1936-1937 singles championship at the American Bowling Congress tournament in New York City last spring when he hit the maples for a 749 triple.

He combined games of 266-277 and 268 to make his record high triple mark in the A. B. C.

After skyrocketing into national prominence as a top notch bowler, Gene, who is a barber by profession, dropped his comb and shears and started bowling for a living.

This is his first national-wide tour, but since joining Falcato in some exceptionally high games, The Mount Vernon sensation has an average of 230 for the games he has bowled during the past three weeks.

In addition to their matches, Falcato and Gagliardi will present a brand new program of trick shots. Making two strikes with one ball is one of their features.

Another innovation in trick play is an example of perfect timing and control when they perform as a team. During this masterly bit of showmanship they successfully accomplish feats as a duo, that would be considered as an outstanding exhibition pin wielder in the public eye today.

HARNESS SPORT CHANGES LOOM

Drivers Invited To Air Grievances On Present System

COLUMBUS, Nov. 19.—Owners, breeders, trainers and drivers of harness racers had an invitation today to air their grievances on the present system of starting, the money-win basis of classification for pacers and trotters, or any other phase of the sport.

Citing "an undercurrent of dissatisfaction" on many aspects of the sport, Mrs. Don A. Detrick of Bellefontaine, secretary-treasurer of the United Trotting Associations, Inc., sponsor of racing at all Ohio county fairs, called a luncheon meeting Dec. 8 in Columbus to do something about it.

She suggested that resolutions incorporating the wishes of the horsemen be adopted and committees appointed to present them to the Ohio fair managers' annual convention in January.

The classification system particularly has drawn criticism because of the few events for high-class horses offered at Ohio fairs. Many drivers declare that the better they have to race, the less opportunity they have to race.

Similarly the use of two starting systems has been under fire.

Last season the grand circuit used the parade plan of starting and the Ohio half-mile track stuck to the scoring system, thus hampering horsemen who wished to campaign both circuits.

BARKER NAMES DARTMOUTH TO WIN SATURDAY

Picks Ohio State Over Michigan; Indiana Over Purdue

By HERBERT W. BARKER
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—This corner takes one hasty, birds-eye view of the week's football slate and calls frantically for a horse in order to emulate the famous Leacock hero who mounted his trusty steed and "galloped madly off in all directions." No equine transportation being forthcoming, it seems valor will have to bat for discretion, so here goes:

Stanford-California: This one decides the Pacific coast conference race and probably the far western representative in the Rose Bowl. The nod goes to undefeated California.

Harvard-Yale: The pressure is on unbeaten Yale but just why that should be cause for Eli alarm is hard to fathom. Harvard will be tough but the ball is for Yale.

Notre Dame-Northwestern: The nomination is Notre Dame but the Irish will do their followers a big favor if they quit stalling in the scoring zone.

Fordham-St. Mary's: If they play the bell of St. Mary's after this one it probably will be in a minor key, Fordham.

Pitt-Penn State: Penn State's rabbit backs may give the Panthers an unpleasant afternoon. Not enough, however, to predict anything but a Pitt victory.

Columbia-Dartmouth: Columbia, with Luckman pitching nothing but strikes, will be one of the day's very best long shots but Dartmouth's crack line and versatile backs should enable the Green to wind up an unbeaten season on the right note.

Syracuse-Colgate: If Syracuse doesn't get partial revenge for past indignities tomorrow this corner positively will no longer believe in Santa Claus, Syracuse.

Temple-Villanova: Probably close, Villanova.

Princeton-Navy: Navy. Holy Cross-Carnegie: Hard to figure but unbeaten Holy Cross gets the nod.

Lehigh-LaFayette: LaFayette. Georgetown-Maryland: Maryland has the greater scoring punch and rates the edge.

Minnesota-Wisconsin: This old war-horse among football rivalries should be closer than it's been for years but we'll take Minnesota.

Michigan-Ohio State: The comparative records are so heavily in Ohio State's favor that it's "must" routine to pick the Buckeyes.

Illinois-Chicago: In which the cards are stacked too heavily against the Maroons, Illinois.

Indiana-Purdue: Intra-state rivalry at its bitterest but Indiana is the choice.

Nebraska-Iowa: Nebraska. Marquette-Duquesne: This should be the not for Duquesne's first daylight triumph of the year.

Texas-Christian-Rice: This slap-happy department casts a timorous vote for Christian.

Georgia-Auburn: Georgia came up with a real eye-opener last week but we'll take Auburn.

Florida-Georgia Tech: Teen looks too strong.

North Carolina State-Duke: Duke should win.

Arkansas-George Washington: Centenary-Texas Tech: Out of the silk topper, Centenary.

Iowa State-Kansas State: Kansas State.

Arizona-Kansas: The hunch is on Arizona.

U. C. L. A. Southern Methodist: The coin says U. C. L. A.

Washington-Oregon: Washington. Oregon State-Washington State: Oregon State.

Idaho-Montana: Montana. Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Boston College over Niagara; Army over St. John's (Annapolis); Tulane over Sewanee; Louisiana State over Louisiana Normal; South Carolina over Presbyterian; Citadel over Erskine; Missouri over Washington University (St. Louis); Baylor over Loyola (Los Angeles); Oklahoma over Oklahoma A. and M.; Detroit over

Grid Storm Center

Tom Harmon

Center of a sensational gridiron story is Tom Harmon, Michigan university freshman, shown reading a telegram allegedly renewing offers from Line Coach Bill Bevan of Tulane for financial assistance if he transferred to Tulane from Michigan.

The Michigan Daily, campus publication, revealed that Harmon, star athlete from Gary, Ind., had received a wire from Bevan on the heels of an investigation into athletic subsidization charges at Michigan. Bevan admitted sending the wire but denied that Harmon was offered more than an athletic scholarship, a practice accepted at Southeastern conference schools.

Such stars as Ray King, who is gaining national mention as an end, Lou Midler, Dwight Reed, Rudy Gmitro and Bob Weld will play their final game for Minnesota as the Gophers try for a victory over Wisconsin.

A victory for Minnesota would give it undisputed claim to the Big Ten title with five wins and no defeats.

Indiana and Purdue aren't in the title running, but their "Old Oak-ern Bucket" game always is a scorcher.

CINCINNATI MAY DESERT LEAGUE

Buckeye Loop Awaiting Developments On "Crack-Up"

COLUMBUS, Nov. 19.—Buckeye conference members awaited developments today on the "crack up" issue brought out editorially by student publications of Miami university and the University of Cincinnati.

With the U. C. News-Record declaring that "developments now under way can leave no doubt that the University of Cincinnati has embarked on a program of building a strong football eleven and the Buckeye conference has no part in this program," John L. Horton, sports editor of the Miami student, countered:

"It doesn't seem possible to continue to ask amateur teams to play other teams that are coming out in the open with an athletic program tending to build up winning teams."

The Cincinnati publication said it was "foolishness" for Cincinnati to wait for several years and prove its superiority before it leaves the Buckeye.

The paper advocated severance of U. C.'s Buckeye ties. Athletic Director Dana at U. C. said several days ago the school would remain in the Buckeye loop.

Ohio Entries Win
TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 19.—Entries of Dr. R. A. Kidd, Jr., of Columbus, placed first and third in the $1,000 roadster stake at the Royal Winter fair horse show last night. The entry of T. R. Schaffer of Dover was third in the division of harness horses drawing four-wheeled vehicles.

Creighton; Colorado College over Colorado State; Brigham Young over Montana State; Greely State over Colorado Mines.

BIG TEN GRID SEASON WINDS UP TOMORROW

All Chips On Line As Conference Players Finish Careers

BY EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—All chips will be on the line tomorrow in the Big Ten's "showdown" football program.

Hopes of individual players for a spectacular finish to their collegiate careers, as well as the aspirations of teams to wind up their schedules in the "win" column will be riding as the Western conference puts "finish" on its 1937 campaign.

A capacity crowd of 47,000 is expected at Evanston to watch Northwestern's attempt to "take out" Notre Dame the 26 to 6 defeat the Irish handed the Wildcats last year.

The Irish will be favored to repeat, but Northwestern, with a fine line, is rated a good chance to win and "salve" to some extent, a season that was mediocre in comparison with 1936.

Such stars as Ray King, who is gaining national mention as an end, Lou Midler, Dwight Reed, Rudy Gmitro and Bob Weld will play their final game for Minnesota as the Gophers try for a victory over Wisconsin.

Billy Beauhuld Will Test Henry Armstrong Tonight

Featherweight Champ Meets St. Louis Battler Who Boasts 44 Straight Ring Victories

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—They're feeding Billy Beauhuld and his undefeated string of 44 straight fights to Henry Armstrong's knockout tangle may come the No. 1 challenger for Lou Ambers' lightweight crown.

The prospects for a lot of action between two of the buster little fighting fellows has Promoter Mike Jacobs jubilantly confident that the faithful will pack the big eighth avenue arena with as many as 18,000 fans.

The bout brings together two ex-St. Louis lads who so far have "made good" in the business of cauliflower ears and broken noses. Beauhuld headed east and landed in Jersey City after making a name for himself as an amateur in the mid-west. Armstrong went through a term of "newsboy-ing" and other assorted tasks there, then headed west, winding up in California.

The Los Angeles Negro, who won from Petey Sarrow in his last big league start, invades the lightweight division as a favorite at any odds, from 2-1 to 4-1 over Beauhuld, he's going to find it difficult adding to his impressive record of 24 knockouts in 24 fights.

Breezy Briefs
Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Billy Beauhuld and Henry Armstrong who tangle in Madison Square Garden tonight, grew up in the same town (St. Louis) but have never met.... When John Carroll university plays Western Reserve at Cleveland tomorrow, John Lucas, Sophomore center for John Carroll from Sharpsville, Pa., will line up against John Lucas, Western Reserve sophomore halfback from Sharpsville, Pa.... Both are Slovaks, old pals and High school companions (but no relation).... Lou Gehrig, the Yankee iron man, is due in Hollywood Monday to begin work on "Laughing Senior."

So far as the football reporters are concerned, the most popular coach to come to town is "Slip" Madigan of the St. Mary's Gaels. (That feller has a way with him).... The anti-Nazi crowd has started its boycott of the Max Schmeling-Harry Thomas fight by picketing Mike Jacob's hippodrome, although the fight will be held in Madison Square Garden.... Note to California: We have it fairly straight Pitt will decline a Rose Bowl bid even if it is tendered.

No four-star special this week account conditions being too uncertain.... But here are a couple of lusty two-star specials: Columbia over Dartmouth and Stanford over California.... Western sports writers are carrying the torch for Ray Mickovsky of the Case school at Cleveland, to make the Associated Press "Little All-America".... Alabama fans are Tech to beat the Tide.... How Tech to beat the tide.... How did some of those wires get past the censor?

The Associated Press All-America football teams (officially most books and the one all the boys want to make) comes out Dec. 4.... Jimmy Dykes may be talking out of his hat but here's what the Guy says: He will trade every member of the White Sox except Luke Appling, Monte Stratton, Mike Kreechik and Luke Sewell.... Also, he wouldn't part with the banana-eating Zeke Bonura for Jimmy Fox, Hal Trosky or Joe Kuhel.... (Is he still so hot in Chicago?)

WOOSTER, Nov. 19.—Wooster college's cross-country team was favored today to win the annual Ohio conference meet with runners from Oberlin, Case, Muskingum and Mt. Union colleges here Saturday.

FIFTEEN OHIO COLLEGE GRID TEAMS FINISH

Ring Down Curtains On Seasons In Games Tomorrow

COLUMBUS, Nov. 19.—Fifteen Ohio college teams bow out of the 1937 grid campaign Saturday as 10 contests are offered on the Buckeye front, leaving but seven to carry on through the Thanksgiving day menu for four games.

Thirteen other teams complete their chores last Saturday or the week before.

The heavy guns will boom Saturday at Ann Arbor, Mich., when Ohio State winds up its Big Ten drive against the Wolverines, and at Dayton where Marshall's "Thundering Herd" battles it out with Dayton's Flyers for the Buckeye conference championship.

Ohio conference frays, which drop the curtain on that loop's activities for the year, take Marietta to Ashland, Heidelberg to Wittenberg, Denison to Oberlin, and Muskingum to Mount Union. Non-league affairs are Western Reserve vs. John Carroll at Cleveland, Akron vs. Xavier at Cincinnati, and Washington and Jefferson at Wooster.

Of all those contests, only the Akron-Xavier tilt claims exceptional interest. The Rubber City Zippers, should they win over the Musketeers, will be in a position to claim all or half of the unofficial state title. Dayton is tied with Akron with seven wins in eight starts, and if both win Saturday they will finish in a deadlock.

The big Dayton-Marshall tilt is slated to attract about 15,000 fans, the largest crowd in the history of the Flyers. Dayton can take the Buckeye crown with a win or a tie, while Marshall must win to take the undisputed championship.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Sinclairs fell from the top position in the Commercial Bowling league for the first time of the season at the Grate Recreation alley last night as they dropped two of three games to the Peoples Lumber keglers.

The wins boosted the Lumbermen into first place, one game ahead of the Bretzels of Leontonia, and out of three games. The defeats moved the Sinclairs to a tie for third place with Grate Recreation and Smith's Creamery.

Leaders in the Bliss and Electric Furnace leagues at the Marine temple alleys retained their positions last night as the Machine Shop won three games from the Engineers in the Bliss loop and the Panthers took three games from the Lions in the Electric Furnace circuit.

EAST STATE STREET SALEM, OHIO

"Beauty's A Charm" by HARRIET HINSDALE

SYNOPSIS

Don Ames, publicity agent for Bloom-of-Youth Cosmetics, comes to Carterton, Louisiana, in search of Lucy Lee Carter, whose photograph has won first prize (one thousand dollars in cash) in a nation-wide beauty contest sponsored by his firm. Directed to Rosemead, the dilapidated Carter mansion, by young Clyde Dixon, proprietor of the local service station and Lucy Lee's sweetheart, Ames meets Pearl Carter, plump, blonde, second wife of ineffectual Wakefield Carter, and lovely Lucy Lee herself. Until the stranger's arrival Lucy Lee had known nothing of the contest or the fact that her picture had been sent in. Mrs. Carter intended sending her own picture, but Lucy Lee's brother, Juddy, substituted his sister's photograph. Ames tells Lucy Lee that he will enter her in the International Beautyquest soon to be held in Atlantic City, and that fame and fortune await the whole family under his guidance. Bewildered by the sudden turn of events, Lucy Lee is at last persuaded it is her duty to earn money to send her younger brother to school and to fix up the old house. That night she unwillingly breaks the news to Clyde.

CHAPTER VII

Suddenly, overnight, the somnolent existence of Rosemead changed. First came the shopping trip to New Orleans with Pearl in full command, her native shrewdness to the fore. In her inmost soul she would always be convinced that but for Juddy's mischievous interference her own photograph would have won the Bloom-of-Youth prize. However, since events had turned out otherwise Pearl meant to get everything she could out of the opportunity as it came to hand.

It was astonishing to see what she accomplished in a short time with regard to her own appearance. Pearl Carter was nearing thirty and sinking into the loose flabbiness of physical and mental inertia, but now she became a woman with a purpose in life—that purpose being nothing less than the recapturing of the lines she had proudly displayed 10 years ago.

She dieted, she took strenuous reducing treatments and more exercise than she had had for years. It was martyrdom to her ease-loving body but Pearl had determined on a definite goal. She was going to get rid of 20 pounds if it killed her. At the end of two weeks she was miraculously slimmer, a hundred per cent prettier, and dressed in excellent imitation of the smartly gowned actresses over whose costumes she had pored in her incessant reading of popular publications.

Pearl had fully intended that when she and Lucy Lee departed from Rosemead for the north, they should leave Mr. Carter and Juddy at home. But here she found herself blocked by a solid and unbreakable wall of opposition. It was simply unthinkable to Wakefield Carter that the ladies of his family should travel long distances into unknown country alone, without his protection. Useless for Pearl to wax scornful on his lack of practicality, his ignorance equal to theirs of the north and its ways. Her sarcasm fell on deaf ears. Her husband for once remained unmoved by recrimination or cajolery.

"When you and my daughter leave Rosemead, Juddy and I are going with you," was all Wakefield Carter said.

And for once, Pearl knew that he meant it. When the day actually came they all walked out of Rosemead together; and the old house stood empty and silent, faded green shutters closed and doors locked as they had not been for generations of home-loving Carters.

It seemed to Lucy Lee she could not bear to go; and yet at the same time this adventure into which she was moving had all the enchantment and thrill of the unknown, toward which youth inevitably turns. In spite of herself she was excited—wondering—

Last night she and Clyde had kissed goodbye the dreaming old garden. His lips had pressed fever-

"Wotta pip," one of the reporters remarked to another, sotto voce.

ishly to hers and his face had been strangely pale. He had said it was like a nightmare, a bad dream. He could not believe she was actually going away—

There had been youthful, husky-voiced promises . . . she would write to him often . . . he would think of her constantly . . . and when she came back everything would be the same. . . .

She had come into the house with tear-filled eyes and Pearl had sniffed contemptuously.

"Puppy love! Don't be such a fool, Lucy Lee. You'll soon forget there ever was such a boy as Clyde Dixon. It's time you began to grow up and put such silly nonsense out of your head."

When they boarded the boat in New Orleans, bound for New York, they got their first taste of publicity. Telegraphic messages from Don Ames to various city editors on New Orleans newspapers, about a Louisiana girl winning the nation-wide beauty contest, caused ship news reporters to descend upon the travelers like a swarm of hungry locusts. They asked Lucy Lee to pose for pictures on the sunlit deck of the steamer. Pearl was never far from her side, as cameramen focused their black boxes and other passengers stood in the distance watching interestedly. At first Lucy Lee felt a little dizzy, with all those alien eyes staring, and she clung to Pearl's hand as together they faced the battery of snapping cameras. But soon that passed and when there was a request for a pose alone she relinquished Pearl's hand and stood against the rail, smilingly at ease. A gentle wind molded the light silk frock she wore against her slim graceful body. She had removed her hat at the plea of the cameramen, and the sun glinted on the heavy waves of her coppery bronze hair.

"Wotta pip," one of the reporters remarked to another, sotto voce. "This baby really has got sumpin' no kidding! Them eyes . . . them hair . . ."

He smacked his lips. "them curves. If they'd run her for President that doll sure would get all my votes."

New York—

First there were four long, lazy days at sea, the lapis lazuli of the Mexican Gulf changing to the grayish blue swells of the broad Atlantic. Then the ruffled waters of New York Bay, dancing in the June sunshine. A dream city raising its incredible towers to the far sky and a slender girl standing at the ship's rail, wide dark eyes drinking it in.

The steamer made its way slowly to the pier. Lucy Lee and Juddy had gone up forward by themselves and their two slim young bodies were pressed close together as they leaned on the rail and looked out across the busy water traffic of the crowded harbor.

Business Answers Racket Challenge

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19.—Utmost secrecy surrounded the movements of 11 business men scheduled to appear before the Cuyahoga county grand jury today to testify, Safety Director Eliot Ness said, how labor racketeers exacted thousands of dollars from them by extortion and intimidation.

Ness, a former federal alcohol tax agent who figured in the investigation on Al Capone's activities in Chicago, said the grand jury would hear more than 60 witnesses before the widespread investigation to stamp out racketeering in Cleveland is completed.

Seven out-of-town witnesses were sequestered in a downtown hotel from where they will be escorted to the criminal court building. To assure privacy their names will not be recorded in the grand jury witness book, it was disclosed.

After today's session the grand jury will not hear further evidence in the investigation until next Tuesday and it was anticipated it would not make a return for at least a month.

Ousting Chapel's Defenders

When artillery and machine guns failed to dislodge Chinese snipers who remained behind in Chapel when the main Chinese army retreated, Japanese attackers resorted to incendiary bombs. Here is one Nipponese soldier hurling a fire-bomb at the remains of a once-peaceful Chinese tenement. The bomb contains a powerful chemical for starting instantaneous combustion.

Brotherhood Meets
The Churchmen's brotherhood of Grace Reformed church met Wednesday evening in the church social room with Leo Holloway as leader. The topic was "The Program of the Local Church". Short talks were given on the subjects, "The History of Grace Church", Ralph Hum, "Home Missions", Richard Orr, and "Foreign Missions", Rev. W. R. Gobrecht. A lunch was served by the refreshment committee. The topic for the next meeting, Dec. 15, will be "Sermons That Help Me Most", and the program will be in charge of Elmer Stiller, H. J. Harrold and D. L. Lusk. Ralph Hum will be chairman of the refreshment committee.

The annual ever-member canvass of Grace church will be held Sunday afternoon in charge of 22 men of the congregation. At the evening service, in connection with the annual Thank-offering service of the missionary groups, Ruth Heinmiller and Sara Jo Schilling, Cleveland, will show motion pictures of the Reformed mission fields in the Orient. Stage Set for Soviet Election

Josef Stalin

Youth teaching peasant

Nikolai Yezhov

Soviet Russia goes to the polls on Dec. 12 to elect 1,000-odd deputies to the Supreme Soviet congress and 2,000,000 deputies to local Soviet councils. More than 100,000,000 are expected to vote. First to announce their candidacy were Josef Stalin, dictator and chief commissar, and Nikolai Yezhov, head of the Russian political police. The Soviet election differs radically from most elsewhere in that there is only one party represented on the ticket, voters' choice being restricted to candidates, all of whom are pledged to the same credo. However, the "privilege" of voting a secret ballot strikes the Russian as rather satisfying and a most democratic step. Discussion groups review the qualifications of various candidates and the whole business is carried off in very serious manner.

JOHANNESBURG — The South African government is making $5,000 a month by hiring out native convict labor, for which there is a great demand. The average monthly admission to the prisons is 5,000, but the demand for penal labor is greater than the supply.

MANGUM, Okla. — Farmers in southwest Oklahoma have been invited to join a turkey pool to dispose of their birds at the best possible price. The co-operative plan has been used in other Oklahoma towns, including Guthrie and Sayre.

France Makes Famed Airport Ultra Modern; Dedication Set

By PETER C. RHODES,
United Press Correspondent.
PARIS, Nov. 18.—The new airport of Le Bourget, famous as the landing place of Charles A. Lindbergh after his epic-making solo Atlantic flight, will be dedicated Saturday as one of the most modern flying fields in the world.

The airport, which was only a huge boggy field surrounded by several hangars when Lindbergh brought down his "Spirit of St. Louis" on May 23, 1927, has expanded with the phenomenal growth of flying since that day. Today it accommodates regular air services from every city in Europe and is a terminal for lines stretching as far as China, Australia, western Siberia, South Africa and South America.

A creek which formerly wandered about the huge airfield has been tunneled and thick sod covers the smooth, 2-square mile field. Most of the improvements are to be found in one corner of the airport, where a quarter of a mile long broad concrete runway has been built in front of the various commercial line hangars. There is a small first aid hospital, a big modern flying control room where flying bulletins are issued every 10 minutes, administration buildings and offices for a dozen international air companies.

Design Is Ultra-Modern
Artistically designed, all the buildings and hangars give an ultra-modern note in harmony with the streamlined craft which are constantly arriving and leaving. All the services for a modern air station are available; meteorological service, radio station which is constantly broadcasting and receiving from planes on route, postal service, customs depot, and waiting room. It resembles a very modern railroad station. There is even a small hotel on the field, for late arrivals, or delayed travelers.

Work on modernizing the new field was begun in February, 1936, according to plans submitted by the French architect, Labro, a Rome prize winner. More than $750,000 was allotted for the scheme, which was essentially carried out as a government public works project to relieve unemployment.

Improvements included the doubling of the size of the field, construction of the modern air station in the lower corner of the field and the widening of an autostrade connecting the field with the heart of Paris. Work was completed early in the summer. It had been planned to complete the entire project for the opening of the Exposition, but the same causes that delayed the Exposition hampered work on the airport.

Used By Military Planes
Le Bourget is the central airport for all Paris. It is also one of the principal military airports which surround the city and have replaced the ancient forts which once stood guard outside the city's walls. A crack squadron of bombers and pursuit planes also is stationed at Le Bourget, housed in a military post on the opposite side of the field from the air station. A massive air pagoda will celebrate the official opening of the field. Commercial and military planes will take part in the ceremonies, roaring down over the airport. The "Popular Flying" clubs, organized by Air Minister Pierre Cot, also will participate.

Pilots from more than 30 of these clubs scattered throughout the country will meet in Paris to celebrate their first anniversary. Already, it is estimated, the clubs have trained more than 600 new fliers since their opening a year ago.

The field will accommodate a doubling of its present air traffic, estimated as the highest of any capital in Europe. Developed during the World war as a military field, it has become one of the leading airports of Europe. Should trans-Atlantic landplane services be inaugurated in the next few years, it will have achieved the goal which Frenchmen foresaw in 1927 when Lindbergh landed there—an airfield linking the five continents.

COLLEGE CHIEF HITS WARFARE

Lets Five Ways to Mold Public Opinion Against Conflict

WOOSTER—Dr. Charles F. Wishart, president of the College of Wooster, proposes five ways to mold public opinion against war:

- 1—Expose the futility of the notion that nations secure protection from war by a high degree of preparedness.
- 2—Organize for peace.
- 3—Is it not tragic that we have a "Secretary of War"? he questioned. "Let's call him something else—Secretary of National Defense," he proposed.
- 4—Let us agitate for such a government set-up as would use at least something of the vast sums, which the taxpayer is now giving for armies and navies, to develop the department of our government whose one business it would be to seek out means of maintaining peace among the nations.
- 5—"Finally," said Dr. Wishart, "we must give ourselves with utter abandon to the international extension of the Kingdom of God. The supreme factor of hope is in advancing international Christianity, in a missionary enterprise which is going forth into every land to extend the hand of brotherhood rather than the clenched fist of militarism."

2—Turn the searchlight on the relations between those merchants of death, the manufacturers of munitions and the war policies of various nations.

4—Frankly face the economic background of war.

5—"Finally," said Dr. Wishart, "we must give ourselves with utter abandon to the international extension of the Kingdom of God. The supreme factor of hope is in advancing international Christianity, in a missionary enterprise which is going forth into every land to extend the hand of brotherhood rather than the clenched fist of militarism."

How to Be a "Reg'lar" Fellow—Without Pills

There's a better way to get on the "regular" side than by over-stimulating your intestines with cathartics. Give up the vest-pocket cures and eat a natural laxative food—Kellogg's All-Brans.

Instead of abusing your intestines, All-Brans supplies TWO things they need. First, it's a good source of vitamin "B"—the vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract. Second, All-Brans provides "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination.

Eat this crunchy, toasted cereal with milk or cream and fruits—or in cooking. But however you eat it, use it regularly: eat two tablespoons of All-Brans and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics, too! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. At every grocer's.

children were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cobourn, Middleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whinnery and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Whinnery, Winona, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cobourn.

Sunday visitors at C. W. McDowell's were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hampton, Bath, and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Fagen, Akron.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Schaefer, Miss Bernice Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Houts and daughter Janet Elaine, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Schaefer, Salem-Libon rd.

Miss Bernice Schaefer and Miss Phyllis Lamb are home from Kent for the weekend.
